PRESIDENT ON ROUTE HOME FROM OTTAWA

Talks with Churchill Expected To Follow at White House.

The Associated Press
OTTAWA, Aug. 26—The president's capital speed boat left on his way to the United States today after a renewal of conference with Prime Minister Churchill, perhaps more affecting the war.

The President left last night's conference with Churchill, already had borne the brunt of the announcement. Lord Louis Mountbatten, commander in chief of the British forces in the Pacific, was named supreme Allied commander in the Pacific after the President's announcement.

The President's move was a surprise, and it was expected that the President would do well to consider the reinforced of the British Commonwealth. The President's move was a surprise, and it was expected that the President would do well to consider the reinforced of the British Commonwealth.

Senator's Son Missing
The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—Lieut. Marcus George, U. S. Marine, son of Senator and Mrs. F. George of Georgia, was officially listed on records as missing in action when the senator's son had been taken over on a patrol which was last heard from two days ago.

WHEN? AND WHERE? Invasion of Fortress Europe by the Allies may come soon for the axis continues to suffer reverses on the land, sea and in the air. The noose draws tighter about the Nazi neck and the Hitlerites are reeling from Allied blows. Where or when the invasion will come is a matter of conjecture by observers who theorize and predict several avenues of entrance. Cartographer E. George Green puts these possible invasion thrusts on paper in excellent map produced above. (International News Map)

2 BURGLARIES REPORTED HERE

Oil Station Office and Home Entered; Value of Loot Set at $260.

Jewelry, cash, and other articles, total value of which was estimated at over $260, were reported stolen when a Marion business establishment was burglarized last night and a local residence Tuesday night.

Approximately $5 in cash and over $100 worth of postage stamps of various denominations constituted the loot in the burglary at the Pure Oil Bulk station on West Center street last night.

The burglary at the Pure Oil station took place between 11:30 and 1:30 a. m. this morning, when the watchman of the station warehouse, in opening up for the day, discovered that the office had been ransacked.

The watchman said he found a railroad spike near the front door of the station. The door had been opened by the use of the spike, which probably had been obtained from the nearby railroad tracks.

The money and postage stamps were taken from a cash box in an office safe police reported. The combination on the safe had been knocked off with a heavy hammer.

The station watchman found all of the station records had been taken from the safe and scattered over the floor.

GERMANS FIRE ON DANES IN MARKET PLACE

Soldiers Take Stern Measures To Quell Revolt in Conquered Cities.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 26—German soldiers, upon entering Denmark to stamp out the people's revolt against Nazi occupation, fired a volley of shots during a disturbance in a crowded Copenhagen market place last night. The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet said today.

Despite the influx of troops and the general strikes spread to the harbor cities of Helsingor and Vejle, crippling German shipping and boat-building, and the state of emergency was extended to a seventh city, Roskilde.

Stories of the shooting said to have occurred in the Rådhuspladsen in the center of Copenhagen—where Nazi machine-guns were reported spotted at strategic points—came from travelers reaching Malma. They were unable to find out whether there had been any casualties, the paper said.

Production Disrupted
Production materials for Nazi submarines and other war ships were disrupted when, according to the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter, 6,000 workers struck Monday at the important Hjulstjärn main works in Copenhagen.

No official casualty figures were available, but unofficial and scattered reports indicated that about 80 persons have been killed and 150 injured in clashes between the Danes and Germans and as a result of sabotage since Aug. 18.

A critical food shortage developed in the city of Fredericia as a result of transport difficulties due to the blasting of railway lines in that area.

One Stockholm newspaper, Allehandan, speculated whether the Germans planned to institute a flat military control over all Denmark, intern King Christian and strip the Danish government of its powers.

Meanwhile, Copenhagen continued to bristle with Nazi military might as tension grew in the capital city of the angler Danes. German Ambassador Werner Best met yesterday with Danish officials to confer on ways of halting the revolt, but there has been no official word.

CORONER WITHHOLDS LONG DEATH VERDICT

Says He'll "Look Around for More Evidence."

Coroner Edward F. Smith of Franklin county refused today to return a verdict in the death of Mrs. Eli Long, 33-year-old, Des Moines county housewife, who fell to her death from the sixth floor of the Neil House Tuesday.

The coroner conferred with the woman's husband and Charles Druggan, Long's attorney, and then said that "because of the circumstances" he would not return a verdict but "look around for more evidence."

Long and Druggan did not appear at coroner's inquest yesterday, but Druggan said later they had not been advised to be on hand.

Long and Druggan went to the Long home near Delaware shortly after Mrs. Long's fatal plunge. Druggan said he would accompany Long to Columbus if called to the inquest.

Two witnesses were questioned yesterday. Africe Starks, a bell-boy, said that when he delivered ice to the couple's room shortly before Mrs. Long's fall, she was standing at a window and asked him how to release the screen. He said he did not answer.

Jesse Miller, 155 1/2 N. High St., a city watchman, said he saw her fall as he sat in the statehouse yard.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. in the Schodinger chapel, with burial in Amaranth Abbey.

Treasurer's Office To Be Open Additional Hours
The county treasurer's office will be open tonight and Friday night for the convenience of persons unable to call at the office during the day for the payment of the June taxes, Marion E. Hunkin, county treasurer, announced today. The office will be open tonight from 7 to 8 o'clock and Friday night from 7 to 8 o'clock. Deadline for payment of taxes on real estate for the last half of 1942 is Sept. 4 and there will be no extension of time, the treasurer announced.

RAF Mosquitos Keep Berlin on Anxious Seat Third Night

Speedy Bombers Stab at City and Find Fires Still Burning from Smashing Monday Raid.

LONDON, Aug. 26—RAF Mosquitoes kept the nerves of Berliners on edge last night with the third raid on the German capital in as many nights.

The all-weather bombers said they had last night in a series of attacks, a smashing attack on the city. The bombers said they had been informed of a complete blackout of enemy headquarters for most of the night all the way across Europe. PRG and five neutral stations had the air to themselves.

Three German airfields and a power station in western France were raided yesterday by American and British medium bombers without loss.

U. S. Eighth air force Mosquitos concentrated on the power station at Rouen and the Tiquetteville airfield while RAF Mosquitos bombed the Bernay St. Martin air base and RAF Bombers the one at Beaumont Lez Lognon.

Pilots who flew the fast, two-engine Mosquitos to the German capital for the second straight night reported that even from a great height they could see patches of German bombs from the fires started by the heavy bombers on Monday night's saturation attack.

One flyer said that although the Germans might dismiss the Mosquito assault as nuisance raids, "last night we were enough of a nuisance for them to put up as heavy a barrage as if we were there in force."

PLANES BLAST AIRFIELD FROM TREE TOP LEVEL

Lightnings Open Fierce Attack To Be Followed by Heavy Bombers.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 26—Swarms of lightning fighters dogged across Italy and shot up ground defenses at Foggia yesterday, preparing the way for the all-American wrecking of the airfield and 10 satellite fields by three waves of Flying Fortresses and Liberators.

The lightnings were specially equipped for the long-distance run to Foggia, southeast of Naples and on the Adriatic side of the peninsula. Twenty-six enemy planes were shot down in combat as the lightnings came in at tree-top level, and allied sweeps over southern Italy and scores of others were knocked to pieces on the ground.

Liberators from the Middle East then roared in to smash at railway areas and Fortresses from the northwest African command followed.

The Liberators alone were credited officially with knocking down seven German Messerschmitt fighters. All Middle East fighters returned safely to base, a Cairo communiqué said.

15 Allied Planes Missing
Fifteen allied planes in all were missing from the sweeping operations, which were described officially as "one of the most successful surprise air attacks of the war."

It was estimated that 200 to 300 casualties were caused to enemy personnel by the combined strafing and bombing of airfields. Many parked aircraft were reported left ablaze.

Lieut. Col. George MacNichol of Memphis, Tenn., executive officer who organized the unique lightning raid at Foggia and then led it, was awarded personally the distinguished flying cross by Lieut. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander of the northwest African air force on his return.

RAF and Canadian Wellingtons followed the Foggia raids by smashing at the freight yards at Taranto before dawn this morning. Heavy gunners saw bursts and fires across the targets at this important naval base and railway control point despite a smoke screen which started drifting across the objectives.

Going the whole distance at an altitude of less than 100 feet, the lightning pilots said Italians along the coast waved and cheered as they passed.

Fly at Low Level
The tree-top level flight threw the whole Foggia area into confusion, out-witting axis ground defenses and snatching the enemy's detection apparatus.

It was the first time in this theater that fighters in such strength had flown so far and so low.

The distance is about 440 miles, round trip, from the nearest airbase in Sicily. The lightnings, arriving over Foggia airborne found it well stocked with parked aircraft, and some formations headed for the planes with cannon and machine-gun blazing and riddled the close-packed groups before a shot could be fired at them. Ground and air crews scattered in all directions.

Then came the armadas of Fortresses and Liberators. The Fortresses bored through 60 to 100 Messerschmitt and Macchi fighters and destroyed 16. The Liberators got seven more for a total of 26. The total allied losses for the day were 15, none from the Middle East.

Italian Peace Mission Reported in Lisbon
By The Associated Press
BERN, SWITZERLAND, Aug. 26—An Italian frontier report to the Zurich newspaper Die Tat said today that a diplomatic mission headed by Count Dino Grandi, former Italian ambassador to Britain, had arrived in Lisbon and that its aim was believed to be armistice negotiations with the allies.

(The report was entirely unconfirmed and London authorities said they had no knowledge of such a mission and placed no credence in the report.)
(Reuters quoted Die Tat as saying arrival of the mission denoted that "Italian negotiations with a British delegation for an armistice and possibly a separate peace are being continued and even speeded up.")

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 26—Dispatches from Budapest to the Svenska Dagbladet today said that King Boris of Bulgaria and Premier Ion Antonescu of Rumania had visited recently at Adolf Hitler's headquarters and discussed the present Balkan situation.

RUSSIAN PASS EARLIER MARK
By The Associated Press
LONDON, Aug. 26—Forging steadily ahead on an ever-widening front, Red army troops today were beyond the high-water mark of their winter counter-offensive after capturing Zenkov, 85 miles northwest of Kharkov.

A Soviet communiqué, announcing the fall of Zenkov and 60 nearby villages, said German counter-attacks failed to halt a Russian sweep toward the Dnieper river bend as Red army units streamed through fallen Kharkov, pointing toward Poltava and Lgovaya, 75 miles to the southwest and south, respectively.

Russian forces on the lower Dnieper, meanwhile, were reported widening a breach in the German lines southwest of Voroshilovgrad and penetrating ever deeper into the Donets basin.

Capture of Lgovaya, strongly-fortified Nazi anchor, would sever one of the Germans' main railway supply lines in the important Donets area.

The Germans were throwing everything they had into the battle for the strategic Dnieper bend, the daily Russian communiqué indicated.

Only limited Russian gains were recorded on the Bryansk salient to the north, but Red army planes bombed and strafed German troops and supply trains in attacks on Uliners and Novozybkov, east of Gomel.

South of Izyum and southwest of Voroshilovgrad, the Soviet war bulletin said, hundreds of Nazi soldiers were slain as they stubbornly contested every mile. Another 600 fell south of Kharkov, while a heavy toll was also exacted as the Germans fell back from Zenkov.

ALLIES MILE FROM SALAMAU AIRFIELD
By The Associated Press
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC
Aug. 26—American and Australian jungle troops now are within a mile of the Salamaua, New Guinea, airfield, a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed today.

This point of nearest approach is at Kennedy's crossing at the southwest end of the airstrip.

The spokesman said that along the Francisco river, which flows south of the airstrip into Bayern bay, the only Japanese still holding out below the river are at Doi Inlet on the coast.

Capture of the airfield by jungle troops would put the Allies within easy fighting plane range of big enemy bases on New Britain.

Today's communiqué reported no major changes either on New Guinea or New Georgia and said bad weather greatly limited air activity.

WINANT'S SON SAFE
By The Associated Press
LONDON, Aug. 26—The Eighth U. S. Army air force bomber command announced today that Lt. John G. Winant Jr., son of the United States ambassador to Britain, had landed safely in North Africa after turning back from a Britain-bound shuttle bombing formation Aug. 24. Engine trouble apparently forced him from the formation on the trip to Britain.

Churchill Crosses Swords with Stalin

WHEN Winston Churchill crossed swords with Joseph Stalin in the Kremlin last night, the two world leaders engaged in a battle of wits and words that was as fierce as any fought on the battlefield. The British prime minister, who had just returned from a tour of the Soviet Union, was met by the Soviet premier in the Kremlin's grand hall. The two men, who had been at odds since the beginning of the war, engaged in a heated discussion that lasted well into the night. Churchill, who was known for his fiery rhetoric, was met by Stalin, who was known for his stoic demeanor. The two men, who had been at odds since the beginning of the war, engaged in a heated discussion that lasted well into the night.

and with no life. It was the first time he had appeared in Moscow in this costume. It may have been the same costume which was admired in Washington, but in Moscow it was a success. Particularly at a Kremlin dinner which the Russians so informal on some occasions but so formal on others.

On the third evening there was a Kremlin dinner. It was a great state occasion. No one asked the Prime Minister for an explanation of his attire and he offered none. One Russian guest, who could not contain his curiosity, however, leaned over and asked a British general confidentially whether that was the kind of suit worn by British paratroopers during commando raids on France.

It could serve as such, said the general.

Forty-three dishes were heaped on the main table, between the columns of the former ballroom of Catherine the Great and on the two small tables which held the overflow of guests. The meal was magnificent.

Mixed with the meal were countless toasts. The first, was by Stalin the usual salutation to his guests. Molotov proposed a toast to President Roosevelt, to which Churchill responded with a booming "To the President" which could be heard all over the hall.

Admiral Standley offered a libation to the union of Great Britain, the United States, and Russia. General Wavell made a brief speech in fluent precise Russian. As the party warmed up, Stalin appeared to be growing higher, Churchill lower, in spirits.

There was a difficult moment when Clark Kerr proposed a toast to Stalin. Everyone rose to drink—except Churchill. Squatting heavily in his chair, he muttered across to his envoy something to this effect: "Haven't you been in the diplomatic service long enough to know an ambassador addresses his words to the foreign minister of the country to which he is accredited?" An interpreter, meanwhile, was translating Clark Kerr's words. The ambassador's usually ruddy face flushed an even deeper red. When the translation was finished, he turned quickly to Molotov.

The official British view was that two strong men had met and

THE next evening Churchill went back to the Kremlin for a final talk with Stalin. It was so private that not even Harman was present. The two leaders talked until dawn. It was a concrete was accomplished. It was done then Churchill went from the Kremlin to the airport, and took off in a gloomy, early-morning mist.

On the day Churchill left Pravda gave him a so-called going-away present—a cartoon showing a few tin snec's raised on the eastern European shore facing the English Channel and behind them a photograph chanting "Don't come here! These fortifications are unproven!" The official editorial harped on the fact that Russia was fighting alone and urged the Allies to "active operations."

Churchill had come, and after crossing swords with Stalin, had gone. Churchill, in Cairo, was reported to have referred to Stalin as "that monster." So persistent did this report become that it got back to Churchill and he wired his Moscow embassy: "It is a silly lie."

Japan Reached Too Far

THE map shows one of the reasons why the Japanese are running into trouble. They reached out until their supply lines were stretched too far.

Now Guadalcanal is still more than 1,000 miles from the United States. The Japanese have 2,000 miles of supply lines to maintain. This is a very difficult and dangerous task.

Here is a case where the enemy's logistical situation is to the disadvantage of our side. The Japanese have to maintain a long supply line to the front. This is a very difficult and dangerous task.

The result is that our side has a golden opportunity to whittle down the enemy in ships, planes and men. The more reinforcements we can force them to send to their sorely battered forces, the better will be our score.

Had the Japs stopped when they took the rich Dutch East Indies they would have been in a much stronger position. Their mistake in reaching out toward New Guinea and the Solomons, worthless to the Japs except as a possible point for further attack, has given them more costly one in the war. It has given us a chance to cut them down steadily. It has occupied great quantities of shipping which might have been used in building up defense elsewhere and it has given us fairly important minor victories while we were getting ready for the big push.

A Mighty Fortress

IT HAS been the custom of this newspaper for a number of years to urge, at this season, that people give some thought to the matter of going to church.

It is a good practice the year around but this seems an auspicious time to think about it for pastor and people are returning from vacations and the season of the church's greatest activity is just commencing.

This year, if ever, the call of the church comes with special significance. Divine guidance is needed by the nation and by its citizens.

War has brought religion close to the millions of men in service and no one can escape being impressed by the sense of spiritual things expressed by men of all ranks from generals down to privates. Attendance at church services is far greater among men in uniform than among civilians and the chaplains are among the busiest, the most respected and the best loved men with the army, the navy and the other branches.

An hour in the quiet and reverent atmosphere of a church service is good for the body and mind as well as the soul. It is a respite from the madness of war that humanity sorely needs.

As the hymn to express the spiritual courage and moral serenity which the world needs today we quote one written 400 years ago by Martin Luther, a German, champion of the religious freedom the Nazis have tried so vainly to suppress.

"A mighty Fortress is our God,
"A bulwark never failing;
"Our helper He amid the flood
"Of mortal ills prevailing."

Green Light on the Sealanes

SHIPS will continue to carry heavy goods to the ports of the world when this war is over and the United States is becoming the greatest maritime nation in the history of the world.

Cargo planes probably will form the fast express route of the future but ships will continue to carry the heavy goods that the world will need in unprecedented quantities. The amazing production of American shipyards puts this country in a position to dominate the sealanes when peace gives the green light to private commerce.

The wartime shipbuilding program fits our merchant marine fleet for every duty. The Liberty ships which the President called our "ugly ducklings" are slow, cheap and numerous and well adapted to coastwise service. The Victory ships are faster and well adapted for the South American trade. Our newer C-ships are called the finest merchantmen afloat and they will outrun and outlast anything of the class in commerce with the world ports.

Before the war American ships hauled only one-third of the product of this nation. After the war they will be able to carry more than one-half the commerce of the world. This nation became great when its clipper ships ruled the seas more than 100 years ago. Our new fleet holds one of our best promises of a new prosperity.

In the days when we were lending great sums because our inexperienced investors had a great appetite for foreign loans which paid high interest, loans were often made to countries which really did not need them. They were often made for purposes which were uneconomic.

Take the case of our loans to Germany in the days of the Weimar Republic. Many of these were made to public and private German borrowers on what in most cases was by normal financial standards perfectly sound security.

But if we are not going to buy rubber and silk abroad, and if we are going to have Admiral Land's merchant fleet, maintained by subsidies, and if we are also going out to lead the world in civil aviation, and if we are not going to let foreigners dump goods here, and if we are against foreign lending too, then how are foreigners going to pay for the goods that we are hoping to put into the ships that Admiral Land says we are entitled to? How on earth can we sell more and more of everything to everybody and buy less and less from anybody?

Are we not ever going to learn as a nation what we know as individuals: that economic transactions are two-way affairs, and that for every sale there must be a purchase, for every purchase there must be a sale? Yet if we let the blocs and the lobbyists frame our tariffs, let Admiral Land fix our shipping policy, Mr. Jeffers our rubber policy, the air lines our aviation policy, they will, as a combination, though each is full of the best intentions and the highest principles, lead us straight to a catastrophe as great or greater than that which robbed us of the fruits of our victory in 1918.

So I conclude this series with the plea that before we let any one, or any interest, stake out an economic claim in the future, we earnestly resolve to understand the elementary conditions of economic life: that we are a creditor nation and that we can have no stable prosperity if we do not balance our foreign accounts accordingly.

Today and Tomorrow

Imperative Need Seen To Keep Post-War Foreign Business in Balance.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

AT THE end of the preceding article of this series, I argued that we could not avoid mistakes of the post-war period of the 20s until we formed an economic foreign policy which fits the fact that the United States is a creditor nation. I then stated what, I think, is a self-evident proposition, though it is not yet generally understood or accepted in this country, that

The basic principle of an economic foreign policy that the foreign accounts of the nation must be brought into balance by ordinary economic transactions.

Our refusal to adopt this principle made the post-war reconstruction a catastrophic failure. Instead of a principle by which we regulated and kept in balance our economic foreign relations as a whole, we allowed separate groups of Americans to act independently.

The decision as to how much we would allow foreigners to sell to us was made by congress through the usual method of log-rolling a tariff among lobbyists and pressure groups. The decision as to how much we would try to sell abroad was made by the separate corporations and their bankers who were interested in the export business. The decision as to what we would lend abroad, how much and when, was made by bankers and investors.

Each Acted Separately

Each separate tariff schedule, foreign sales promotion campaign, and foreign loan was backed by men looking at their immediate interest. There was no one in the government, and there was no informed public opinion, to insist that all these transactions were interrelated and must be regulated by the national interest as a whole. The national interest as a whole was that all our foreign accounts should be balanced by normal, rather than artificial, economic transactions.

In the days when we were lending great sums because our inexperienced investors had a great appetite for foreign loans which paid high interest, loans were often made to countries which really did not need them. They were often made for purposes which were uneconomic.

Take the case of our loans to Germany in the days of the Weimar Republic. Many of these were made to public and private German borrowers on what in most cases was by normal financial standards perfectly sound security.

But if we are not going to buy rubber and silk abroad, and if we are going to have Admiral Land's merchant fleet, maintained by subsidies, and if we are also going out to lead the world in civil aviation, and if we are not going to let foreigners dump goods here, and if we are against foreign lending too, then how are foreigners going to pay for the goods that we are hoping to put into the ships that Admiral Land says we are entitled to? Back To U. S. Grant

Civil War General First Used Conditional Surrender" in Note to General Buckner.

By DAMON RUNYON

"UNCONDITIONAL surrender," the slogan that has become a sort of code word of the Allies since President Roosevelt declared war on a man who was at a pacifist. He hated war.

He never wanted to be a soldier, became the greatest soldier of his time, uncompromising fighter and a leader of less casualties among his men in an objective that he was sometimes called "the butcher."

He was Ulysses S. Grant, a stubby, little man with a flag of true shrewdness and who had to resign a command in the regular army because he was too strong a fighter. He was a down-and-outer in a little leather store in Galena, Ill., when he was a general in the Federal army. The words that rocked the world brought him out of comparative obscurity to the attention of the world.

He was sleeping in an old shack when a flag of true shrewdness and who had to resign a command in the regular army because he was too strong a fighter. He was a down-and-outer in a little leather store in Galena, Ill., when he was a general in the Federal army. The words that rocked the world brought him out of comparative obscurity to the attention of the world.

HE was sleeping in an old shack when a flag of true shrewdness and who had to resign a command in the regular army because he was too strong a fighter. He was a down-and-outer in a little leather store in Galena, Ill., when he was a general in the Federal army. The words that rocked the world brought him out of comparative obscurity to the attention of the world.

Grant and Buckner had been clear West Point and years later when Grant was way down in disgrace from the coast, Buckner had asked him to manage hotel business in New York.

Now Buckner was seeking a favor. Grant, who had taken the trenches of Donelson after desperate fighting and apparently had the fort so completely that the original commander, Gen. John B. Floyd, who was secretary in President Buchanan's cabinet, was in command, a high-tempered man named Gen. Gideon J. Pillow, had been on a Confederate steamer.

That left the command of the fort to Grant. He wrote his old comrade suggesting an "unconditional" surrender, and the appointment of prisoners to agree upon terms of capitulation. Grant, probably still foggy with sleep, scribbled a reply, this reply:

Camp near Donelson, Feb. 16th
Hd Qrs, Army in the Field.

Gen. S. B. Buckner,

Confed Army.

Sir, yours of this date proposing armistice and appointment of commissioners to terms of capitulation is just received. No except unconditional and immediate surrender can be accepted.

I propose to move immediately upon your works. I am sir, very respectfully
U. S. Grant
Brig. Gen.

BUCKNER squawked about the terms "unconditional and unconditional" surrender. Not long afterward he was around with Grant, cutting up old news.

The north went wild. Victories had not too frequent for it about that time, especially big victories like this one. The news tagged Grant "Unconditional Surrender" Grant. His middle name was really Hiram, not mixup in his West Point papers made it seem his mother's maiden name, and he adopted avoid confusion.

Grant had a lucky break at Donelson. He made an attempt to break through Grant's and his men gave the Federals a terrific and could have escaped, but Floyd got the had Grant's army on the run and he decided to suck there but sent trust messages to Richmond. Grant was away night and some of his enemies said he was stiff with the flu, but he came back on his white horse in time to reverse decision and to scribble himself to fame.

Cats for the Gestapo

LONDON—The Poles have kept their humor in spite of German terrorism. Take the story of the Gestapo-trained for example, told by a Polish officer who reached London from Warsaw.

The Gestapo, he said, after trying unsuccessfully to halt the flow of smuggled food into Warsaw from rural districts, trained vicious dogs to seek out train passengers carrying food in their luggage.

They arranged to meet a certain train, turn their dogs loose to track down those in food.

But someone tipped off the smugglers instead of packing food into their baskets of them put in stray cats.

When the train reached Warsaw the men turned their dogs loose, the Poles open their baskets and cats and dogs turned station platform into a madhouse.

While the Gestapo tried to beat the Poles the dogs disappeared into the crowd with precious food parcels intact.

So They Say—

Often in this campaign we have tall tales almost directly from the battlefield, a hospital ship or to an airfield. In these a man may be in a fully equipped hospital in North Africa less than 12 hours after in battle. — Surgeon of U. S. 7th Army, Sicily.

We view what lies ahead with the vision that comes from having thus far beaten a powerful enemy in every battle and sea warfare.—Adm. William F. South Pacific.

Until fair wages, fair profits and fair permit the making of more goods and sell more and still more, there can be no sufficient jobs.—Frederick C. Crawford, National Association of Manufacturers.

The world is one family with one heart and mind and not with many. President Henry A. Wallace.

Of the 34 million unmarried women in Britain between the ages of 18 and 40, 10 of ten are engaged in full time in war or civil defense, or are members of the forces.

AKE UP, wake up, it's nearly time for school! What are you going to wear that first day... that first week? (Remember, first impressions count the most!)

Cheer up. We're authorities on what it takes. We'll walk you into that classroom in the sort of clothes they'll be sporting at the snootiest Eastern universities. Everything you wear will have zing to spare!

How do we do it? It's a matter of geography. Our buyer lives in New York. She watches smart college girls fill their "entrance requirements" at the fine Fifth Avenue shops. She sees that we get the same styles, and we see that you get them. There's just one big difference: the prices. Our arithmetic works out perfectly for parents on-a-budget.

Let's make it a date for tomorrow! Bring along your mother and, together, we'll do you up brown from toe to crown.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

ARMY VERDICT DUE TODAY IN SOLDIER RAPE CASE

Service Man Accused of Attack on Actress.

By The Associated Press. MURRO AIR BASE, Calif., Aug. 26—A verdict today was indicated by Army authorities as likely in the court-martial trial of Pvt. George Paul Runkle, 22, who testified he had been intimate with actress Lina Basquette out of her assertion that he raped her.

Runkle of Cleveland, O., was charged with rape after Miss Basquette told Burbank, Calif., police she gave a soldier a ride Aug. 9, that he later took the wheel, parked the car and made advances. She testified at the trial that she became hysterical and that she believes he forced her into the back seat of the car, although she did not know if she lost consciousness.

She said he subsequently ejected her from the car and drove away. Runkle was arrested shortly afterward. Runkle testified last night that Miss Basquette voluntarily went to the rear seat of the car and there disrobed. He denied resorting to violence or threats.

On the witness stand earlier in the day, Miss Basquette identified herself as Lina Basquette Mollison, 24, wife of Henry Mollison, a British actor, and mother of a son, 9. She said Mollison was a prisoner of war in Germany, but that she didn't know if he is still alive.

New Burma Drive Is Expected To Be Mountbatten Goal

LORD MOUNTBATTEN

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 — Sharply accelerated pressure on Japan from the east, together with a sea-air-land drive to reopen the Burma road, were regarded here today as likely outcomes of the appointment of Lord Louis Mountbatten as supreme allied commander in southeast Asia.

The doughty Mountbatten, chief of Britain's famed commandos and cousin of King George VI, is due in Washington today to begin plotting details of the broad operational plan laid down in Quebec by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill for crushing Japan.

His appointment, first concrete result of the momentous conferences between the allied leaders, underscored the emphasis which undoubtedly was placed on the Pacific part of the global war at Quebec, and served notice of an impending spurt in allied efforts to bring aid to China.

It brought to the command of the southeastern Asian allied forces a man trained for amphibious operations—one who rose from midshipman to skipper of the illustrious, one who gained first-hand knowledge of land fighting and guerrilla tactics in building up the commandos.

Thus, in Mountbatten's background, military observers found basis for speculation that a direct blow by air and sea may be aimed at the near future at the vital port of Rangoon, even as the offensive down the Arakan coast is

HAWAII MILITARY RULE IN COURT TEST

By The Associated Press
HONOLULU, Aug. 26—A federal judge was prohibited by military restrictions today from enforcing a $5,000 fine he imposed for contempt of court on Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr., commander of the army's Hawaiian department.

Further, he was confronted with the prospect of a fine and prison term for himself if he persisted in what the military regards as his efforts to contravene martial law.

Thus the army took direct action in Hawaii's explosive test of the relative precedence of civil and military law under the circumstance of the territory's semi-martial rule.

Federal Judge Herbert Metzger provoked the question of upholding validity of a writ of habeas corpus for two naturalized citizens of German ancestry who are held interned by the army. General Richardson failed to produce the writ, explaining that martial law in the islands had been placed in force, the writ of habeas corpus thus was suspended.

Justice Metzger then ordered General Richardson to show cause why he should not be fined a contempt fine, when the order was issued, suspended the effect of the writ upon the army and ordered the release of the detainees.

Richardson was ordered to pay the $5,000 fine.

Instantly the general refused to obey the order and announced that he would not be further fined.

BRICKER STILL CHOICE OF SENATOR TAFT

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Aug. 26 — Sen. Robert A. Taft expressed doubt today that John W. Bricker would seek a fourth term as governor of Ohio and reiterated that the Buckeye executive was his choice for the presidency.

The Cincinnati Republican, attending the American Bar association convention here, disavowed any personal presidential aspirations in 1944. He told newsmen in a press conference: "I'm running for the senate at present. Personally, I'm for Bricker and I think he's getting stronger. I doubt that Bricker will run again for governor." The senator said domestic questions, in his opinion, were more important than the 1944 presidential campaign.

Because the United States is "not engaged in a crusade for democracy," its citizens must consider seriously the major principles of a lasting peace if they are to secure that, Taft told the American Bar association today in a prepared address.

Taft outlined a seven-point plan as basis for steps to be taken before considering the question of the use of power to enforce peace.

His points were: complete victory and complete disarmament of the axis which he said should insure peace for many years to come and it is two-thirds of the problem; a strong national defense, abstention from interference in the internal affairs of other nations; a renewed attempt to prevent the occurrence of any war in the world by international action; self-determination of nations; insurance upon free elections in all liberated territories; and lastly a revision of international law to supplant "the German doctrine that might makes right" with an affirmative statement of principles on which the nations may live at peace together.

From message, Robert Miller of Columbus, announced at South's Harbor, will be in charge of the party.

A few days will be needed to the chosen town at noon.

Miss Laurence Weber, student at Marysville college at Marysville, Tenn., has been awarded the Elizabeth H. H. prize, which is awarded by the college for excellence in chemistry. Miss Weber was also on the honor roll the past quarter. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weber of Marietta.

Mr. and Mrs. James Young are the parents of a daughter born Sunday, Aug. 22, at Jane Case hospital, Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Scott received word their daughter, Mrs. Wilma Barnum, is a patient at Providence hospital, Detroit, Mich., recovering from an appendectomy.

BETTER CARE HELPS CUT POULTRY LOSS

By The Associated Press
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26—More care in the henhouse would put 200,000,000 dozen more eggs on America's breakfast tables and 100,000,000 additional pounds of chicken on Sunday dinner platters.

This would be possible if only 5 per cent of needless disease losses were prevented in adult poultry flocks, says Dr. Cliff D. Carpenter of the United States department of agriculture.

And not just 5 per cent, but a 50 per cent reduction in poultry losses could be accomplished by applying modern proven means of disease control to flocks, Dr. Carpenter told the war conference of the American Veterinary Medical association in a prepared address today.

"The nation may fail to meet its 1943 production goals," he added gloomily, "unless vigorous steps are taken to meet this problem."

The rate of mortality after chicks leave the brooder house has doubled since 1920 in many areas, he reported, and poultrymen lose 35 to 40 per cent of their laying flocks from preventable causes.

He recommended rearing birds on clean and adequate range, frequent culling of unprofitable birds, better utilization of natural sources of vitamins, and early care for diseased chickens.

been no information concerning the outcome of their discussions.

The Stockholm newspaper Social Democrat reported today that 20 paratroopers had been found in Denmark along the Aarhus trunk railway which was blasted in five places a few days ago.

This and other reports from Denmark suggested that airborne sabotage commands were being flown from Britain to help the Danes in their revolt against German occupation forces.

The Aarhus line has been one of the principal transport links for German supplies and soldiers. It is said that paratroopers flown to Denmark previously have been only one or two men with the task of carrying out special sabotage.

Berliners Reported in Constant Fear

By The Associated Press
BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 25.—"Berlin lives in real panic" and many persons, terrorized by allied air raids, are fleeing to the protection of surrounding forests, an article in the weekly Die Nation reported today.

(NBC Correspondent John MacVane said in a London broadcast that German government offices are being dispersed throughout Germany as a result of the Berlin bombings. "Apparently the damage to Berlin by the allied air raids was greater than had first been indicated," MacVane said.)

The Die Nation article, written before the German capital's heaviest pounding last Monday night, said Berliners "eyes were opened" by flaming red placards signed by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels telling them to protect their lives and property.

"Goebbels speaks with brutal frankness," Die Nation said. "Otherwise he is powerless at the moment. The wiping out of Hamburg is a terrible phantom making Berlin a real madhouse."

The city is "in feverish fear," the article said. "The war of nerves has reached a peak. Berlin hitherto thought impossible."

Whoever has the opportunity has sent his entire possessions to the country, to Bavaria, Silesia or Vienna. Freight trains are so crowded that furniture shipments had to be forbidden. A million children have been evacuated.

Die Nation said some persons go "three hours away" from Berlin nightly, while poorer persons go less far. Others stay near the Tiergarten, ready to push into the best shelters there.

"Evidences reported the English used new weapons of artificial fire—coal dust, sulphur and phosphorous followed by incendiaries making a terrible explosion comparable only to coal mine fire damp catastrophes," the article went on.

"They also said the flak towers do not function properly because the English cause the sensitive hearing apparatus to vibrate constantly and make accurate aiming difficult."

Himmler's Rise Sign of Hitler's Slipping Power

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

We should not be misled by Hitler's appointment of Heinrich Himmler, the former Prussian minister of interior, as a German minister of interior, a position which carries with it the power of life and death over the people of the Reich and beyond.

The elevation of Himmler's chief minister, and his appointment to the most important post of the Reich government, is a sign of Hitler's slipping power. It is a sign of the decline of the German people's power.

It was Himmler the man who during Hitler's reign of terror was a drunkard and sent a host of colleagues before firing squads. It was Himmler who was the master of the elimination of the Jews. It was Himmler who was the master of the elimination of the Jews.

How Himmler Felt
On this threshold of savagery, the late Neville Henderson, former British ambassador to Berlin before the war, once said:

"If given a gun and told to take two shots, I would first shoot Himmler, then von Ribbentrop (German foreign minister) and then Hitler with the butt of the rifle."

Hitler's appointment of Himmler as minister of interior is really sensational, for the indicators are it has three purposes: (1) to employ a ruthless hand against the growing revolt among the conquered (2) peoples; (2) to maintain a tight hold on a home front which has been showing signs of unrest; (3) to force workers to remain in danger zones and continue production, despite the terrific bombing which industrial centers are undergoing.

This doesn't justify a conclusion that the German people are on the verge of revolt. Morale is subject to quick changes, like your barometer. So let's just take the facts as they stand and log down among our important memoranda that German morale is not what it was, and that the boss gangster is worried.

Has Job on Hands
Himmler's appointment comes on the heels of the catastrophe of the great port of Hamburg, and the terrific bombing of Berlin, which not only is the capital but is the most important single manufacturing center in Germany.

It coincides with demonstrations which are reported to have resulted in half a dozen cities, including Copenhagen, being placed under a state of emergency. And other occupied countries are seething.

The bomb-shock being suffered by the people of the Reich, and the urgent necessity of keeping every wheel of industry turning, must figure very largely in the change of heads for the interior department. There's the colossal task not only of evacuating destroyed areas but of preventing panic and maintaining order. Equally difficult is likely to be the job of forcing workers to stick to their jobs when bombs are ripping factories out by the roots, and destroying the homes close to the plants.

It may be that a collapse of production may overtake Hitler even before the morale of his people cracks. German resources are disappearing in mountainous loss and we undoubtedly are seeing the effects on the Russian front. To cite one example of the awful destructive power being lost against the Reich, it is estimated that thirty per cent of the Nazi fighter plane production was destroyed when American bombers wiped out Regensburg on August 17.

The Tokyo radio says poor Emperor Hirohito is deeply concerned over Japan's war production. His worries are very compared with Hitler's troubles.

DEATH OF ACTRESS' HUSBAND PROBED

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—The actress' office today on the death of Arthur Farnsworth, 35, husband of screen actress Betty Davis and western representative of a Minneapolis firm manufacturing mechanical equipment.

In Farnsworth, former summer stock player, police said was puzzled. He was found unconscious on a Hollywood boulevard sidewalk Monday. Dr. Paul Morris said Farnsworth suffered a heart attack and died, presumably in a fall, after having regained consciousness sufficiently to refuse to be hospitalized.

Mrs. Davis, at the bedside when death came, was overcome by grief and placed under a physician's care. They were married Dec. 31, 1940.

Det. Sgt. H. R. Johnson reported Dave Freedman, tobacco store proprietor, told him Farnsworth fell in front of his store. Freedman related that Farnsworth uttered a muffled cry and fell backward, his head striking the walk, the police report said.

REPORTS OF DROUTH SPUR GRAIN TRADE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Trade reports of drouth conditions in many sections of the southwest with indications pointing to a critical feed shortage in that area several months from now spurred an upturn in grain futures today.

The September contracts of rye and oats led the advance but all deliveries exhibited strength after a hesitant opening. September oats moved to a new seasonal peak. There was a good demand for oats in the cash market. The upturn in rye was aided by covering by previous short sellers.

Coke Out of Race As Epworth Wins

Manager Sends Lashey To Mound; He Pitches a Shutout.

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

John Clark's hot and cold Epworth Methodist registered only lukewarm at Lincoln park last night but that was enough to defeat Coke again by a single run, 1 to 0, and to eliminate the brawlers from the 1945 Little World series.

The one and deciding run, at that, was unearned, coming in the first of the third inning, when Captain Tom Moran of Epworth jogged home on one of Coke's five errors.

Skipper Clark at last has arrived at what he thinks may solve his Series pitching problem. However, it may be too late to do any good since Epworth already has been beaten once, by Universal Coder Monday night. The hurling solution personified is Bob Lashey, who blanked the Cokes on only two hits and fanned five. The Methodists once more did not find Cooke Weiss, the invincible flinger many teams believe is. He was touched for four hits by the Epworts.

Last Friday night, with Weiss on the mound, Bob Virden singled in the last inning to bring Epworth a spectacular 8 to 7 victory over the Colons, in a game which opened Series play.

That's All for Coke
Last night's game, which although not the natural that its Friday night predecessor was, nevertheless had more at stake for one of the teams, each defeated once in the Series, was sure to be eliminated. It was Coke who finally got the upper hand from the double elimination Series.

Only Epworth bars the road up which Universal Coder is heading toward the city championship. If Coder again plasters the Methodists, the losers will become the Marion softball claim, with an undisputed claim to that honor. Epworth would just be (Turn to 'COKE, Page 21)

Yanks Just About All-Stars Win 27 to 7 For Pros' Worst Defeat in 10 Years

By The Associated Press

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 26 —

Sammy Baugh was "right," the Washington Redskins acted the part of professional champions—but what can you do against the greatest collection of collegiate All-Stars?

The answer would seem to be: Lose. And that's what the Redskins did last night. Not only did they lose to the Harry Stuhldreher-coached 1943 All-Star edition, but they took the worst thrumping of any pro team in the 10-year history of this traditional preview of the nation's football season.

The score was 27-7, a supremely lopsided margin that outdistanced the performance of the 1932 All-Stars, who also defeated Washington, 22-16. That, incidentally, was the last time the Redskins had won in the series, but they posted the pros' four-year victory monopoly wide open last night.

In the first period Missouri's Bob Steuber took a Redskins punt at midfield and scampered 50 yards for a touchdown, a placement by Washington's Pat Harder making it 7-0.

Baugh, who ended up with 22 pass completions good for 275 yards, chuckled a four-yard throw to Joe Anderson for a Redskins touchdown, making the second period and tying the score, 7-7, after Bob Masterson's placement kick.

But the All-Stars had a passer, too, a brilliant fellow from Tulsa university named Glen Dobbs, who was an All-American last fall. Dobbs threw to Harder in a play carrying 57 yards for another All-Star touchdown. Harder's kick making it 14-7.

In the third period, Baugh left a pass for a touchdown try. Instead Northwestern's Otto Graham intercepted on the three-yard line and traveled 87 yards for a touchdown.

Before the game was over, the All-Stars cut loose Pat Harder on a sideline sprint for 33 yards and a fourth college touchdown.

race and Charlie (Sparrow) Young of Springfield, O., 1936 Grand American handicap victor, looked like a certain winner in the veteran's race. The 30-year-old Markey star, only man to shoot in all of the 44 Grand Americans, broke 185 of 200.

Heading the list was the 50-year-old doubles competitor in which Rudy Eichen of Kansas City, now a shooting instructor at Great Lakes Naval base, will defend the title he won a year ago.

Carried over from yesterday's opening program, in which 635 men took part, from practically everywhere, competed, were the amateur North American clay target races for men and women, the junior, sub-junior, veterans, husband-wife, father-son, service, state team, champion of champions, and class championships. About 250 shooters went to the traps early today to finish yesterday's schedule.

J. R. Hinkle, 64-year-old Corsicana, Tex., crackshot, won the only title decided in the curtailed program of the abbreviated "Grand," his 195 of 200 being goal for the professional clay target championship at 15 yards. Seventeen-year-old Bobby Lee Siffel of Casey, Ill., sub-junior champion in 1941, appeared to have the junior crown in the bag with 99 of 100 in the "Under 18."

By The Associated Press

GREENVILLE, O., Aug. 26—

Volvo Mire's brown son, Attorney, proved he still was one of the nation's top-ranking two-year-old pacers by nailing out Eddie Haven in a sun-out match for the $12,200 Fox racing stake at the Danke county fair yesterday. Driven by Ernie Smith, Attorney won the first heat of the feature event in 2:06 1/4. Eddie Haven, third in the first heat, pushed across the finish line first in the second heat under Wayne Smart's tutelage, while Attorney trailed a poor fifth. Times for the second heat and run-off race were 2:08 and 2:10.

Wilko Farms of Loganport, Ind., owner of the fast-stepping Attorney, also had the winning 2:17 pace, Little Bell, driven by Smith. The mare took two out of three heats, running her best time of 2:03 1/4 in the second.

Smith drove his third winner of the day, Miss Sarah Abbey, in the three-year-old trot; her best time was 2:10 1/2 in the second. The 2:12 trot purse went to Captain January, chestnut gelding, which led the field in all three heats; 2:05 in the third heat was his best time.
